The Master of Human Resource Management program is designed to prepare students to be strategic and tactical HR management professionals within their organizations. Coursework, taught from the practitioner’s perspective, focuses on applying HR competencies to real-world challenges and opportunities.

The MHRM program requires successful completion of 45 semester-credit hours. To provide flexibility in customizing the program to meet professional and personal goals, the program includes 12 elective credit hours, which may be used to complete a concentration. Total program length varies based on the number of courses taken per eight-week session.

Graduates of DeVry University's Keller Graduate School of Human Resource Management program may consider management and leadership roles in employee compensation, benefits analysis and administration, labor relations, training and development, and other areas of employee management or teaching at the postsecondary level.

For comprehensive consumer information, visit keller.edu/studentconsumerinfo. Important information about the education debt, earnings and completion rates of students who attended this program can be found at keller.edu/mhrm-ge.

Programs, course requirements and availability vary by location. Some courses may be available online only. All students enrolled in site-based programs will be required to take some coursework online and, for some programs and locations, a substantial portion of the program may be required to be completed online. Keller’s academic catalog, available via kelleredu.catalogs, contains the most current and detailed program information, including admission, progression and graduation requirements. Information contained herein is effective as of date of publishing.