ABOUT THIS DEGREE PROGRAM

The Master of Information Systems Management program (Master of Science in Information Systems Management program in New York), taught from a practitioner perspective, focuses on applying IS concepts and skills to real-world situations, enabling students to understand and evaluate technology applications and alternatives.

The MISM program requires successful completion of 45 semester-credit hours. This flexible program enables students to select a concentration that serves their professional and personal interests beyond what the core courses cover. Total program length varies based on the number of courses taken per eight-week session.

Concentrations offered within the MISM degree program:
- Data Administration and Management
- Information Security
- Project Management

DATA ADMINISTRATION AND MANAGEMENT CONCENTRATION

Keller’s MISM program with a concentration in Data Administration and Management includes coursework that examines the managerial concepts and tools for systems development, implementation, management and security, as well as database concepts, components and management issues.

Graduates of this program may consider careers in the areas of information systems management or database administration and management.
